

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the luckiest of them all?

Imagine our-past-self was never made wrong decisions, everything we did was a success, our childhood was considered stress-free, our school grades were nothing but a straight A, and our career was prominent with an opportunity for promotion...and to make the story sounds more surreal, we ended up marrying the person of our dreams!

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the realest of them all?

So, here we are, today, dealing with our real life and activities. This today-self of us is the result of decisions our past-self made in any circumstances and opportunities. Perhaps some of us are thinking what ifs or I wish I for every single wrong decision we made or for every opportunity we let go. But no matter how hard our life could be, our today-self decides to thrive.

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who's the happiest of them all?

Since we can't turn back time nor pretend to live a different life than we currently live, we all still have one opportunity to straighten things up for our future-self. It is never too late to make peace with God and to forgive ourselves. Trust that there are no failures nor sorrows in our tomorrow.
